

Queen Crowned, Alumnus Honored At Livestock Show

The crowning of queen Bonnie Renner, H-Ec.-2 and the announcement of Vivian Y. Overturf '31 as the distinguished animal science alumnus highlighted the 49th Annual Little International Livestock Show at Plumb Hall Saturday night.

A portrait of Overturf will be presented by the Saddle and Sirloin Club to be hung in the Animal Science Hall of Fame.

MISS RENNER and her court, Lucy Ramsey, H-Ec-4 and Ann Miller, H-Ec-2 reigned over the presentation of the awards and trophies.

The Steeb Memorial Trophy was presented to the outstanding showman, Glen Hoffsis. He also won the sheep showmanship contest.

Jim Davis, president of the Saddle and Sirloin Club, won the trophy for the outstanding senior majoring in Animal Science.

The trophy for the animal science student with the highest point hour ration was won by Dean Biery.

THE FRED COE Memorial Trophy for the outstanding junior in animal science with proficiency in meats was presented to Paul Schlagbaum.

In the meats contests the lecture demonstration was won by John Lane, the slaughter contest by Kenneth Davis, the wholesale cutting contest by Ronald Buehler and the ham curing contest by Carl Davis.

Charles Hora won the swine showmanship contest, Ned Doering the equitation contest, Phil Grossman the beef showmanship contest, and Keith Johnson won the horse in hand showmanship contest.
